I had -- handled -- I would sub for being a head teller when people were on vacation. You would take over the role because, you know, you'd have to cover.

And that -- I worked at that branch, like I said, from 1985 to 19- -- June of 1991, because I got married in August of '91. So from that -- but during that transition, when I worked in Liberty Avenue, we had -- my role was -- I bounce around a lot, so -- I have a habit of doing that. It's general utility -- general utility clerk it was called. So again, I was a teller and I did all these various roles.

So during lunch hours you would go out on a platform and you would, you know, learn the process. You'd be on the platform, validate cards. That's how it was when you -- you know, you came in in 1985. And again, went to -- in 1991 I went to Flatbush and Avenue P, Brooklyn.

And I started -- I was a teller there also, but I became a customer service rep. So I went for training, customer service per -- again, consumer account openings. Plus I was able to -- we were versatile -- you know, again going through trainings, we -- we opened up consumer and we opened up business accounts. And that's what my role was there for -- from '93 to '96 I worked there doing) that role, strictly consumer and business accounts.

Then in '96 I got -- I asked for a transfer because I moved out to Long Island. The commute was a little too far going back and forth, so I went to work in the Smithtown branch from -- my son was born -- from, again, the end of '96. I worked there until 1998 as, again, consumer and business accounts, customer service. Everything involved in the retail branch system.

And from that point I decided to make a change and had to broaden my horizons. I learned a lot from Citibank. I went to -- at that point it was Republic National Bank. I went there from '90 -- I'm going by dates when my kids were born. '90 -- the beginning of -- the end of '98 to 2000 I worked at rep, to learn from the customer service rep that was outside. And we -- that would be various roles of sales. You know, conversations when customers come in, if they have any problems with their, you know, service issues. And I would go back and forth from teller to customer service. I did that for about, I don't know, six or seven months.

And then I took on the role of -- they transferred me over where -- what they called, back then, customer service -- customer account opening. I don't remember the exact title because acronyms changed all the time.

So I -- I opened up personal accounts on -- on the platform, and then eventually got promoted to assistant manager, and basically opened up consumer accounts. And that's what I did there for two years. And then I transferred to Kings Highway in -- in Brooklyn on East 15th Street. And that was in January of 1993.

And then from that point I was an assistant manager there. I was doing

M. Ashley

Republic National Bank in downtown Brooklyn, old Williams- -- the old Williamsburg Savings Bank, and got to develop myself being a -- you know, I was assistant manager, sales manager, for -- for -- you know, on the platform.

And basically I -- you know, my role was consumer accounts, business accounts, but going out developing business. And then at that point Republic National Bank got bought over [sic] by HSBC. Felt I -- I had an offer to come back to Citibank. Because at that point with my background and my experience on the retail side, consumer and business, I got the offer to go work in Syosset, Long Island, and came in as a business banker in that role, because that's where -- when I left Republic, came back over.

And they knew my background, where I was cert- -- you know, open up consumer, business, the whole nine yards. And I worked there from 2000 to 2006. I worked there for about six years.

And then 2007 I got -- the manager I worked for there, he transferred.

 A Okay. I'm all new -- this is a whole new thing to me.
 I have health and life -- life and health insurance license, and I have a and health insurance license, and I have a Series 6, which is probably gonna be done now, because I have been at Signature now 16 months. And they -- you lose -- you -- the bank doesn't hold licenses, so I won't have that. Life and health I can keep, which I want to keep, that I worked very hard for taking those tests. But the Series 6, that'll -- that will not be -- I wouldn't even know if you lose that, but I do have that.

Q What is a life and health insurance license? Can you explain what that is.

A You're able to sell life and health insurance. And again, when working for the bank, we were required to go and have licenses to -- to be -- you know, to work -- to have -- to be on the platform, because that was that whole time frame where per- -- personal bankers, commercial bankers, you had to have it so if -- you were accessible to be Citibank for that. But I don't know -- is that even relevant? I don't know.

Yeah, so I went to training.

And I had to go for -- at that time -- life and health you could study for out of the manuals, and then you went for like a three-day -- again, I don't remember how long. It could have been a week.

The Series 6 you had to study. You know, some people could study for it 24 hours. It's -- you know, it depends on how you, you know, take a test. But it was -- that was like a three-week process for the Series 6.

And you had -- you were sent for training. The bank hired outside people to come in and train from the -- the securities and training -- securities training and the SEC commission. However, again, I don't remember all -- everything.

Q And what does the Series 6 allow you to do?

A That deals with annuities, mutual funds. A minimal. It's not much. You know, a Series 7 is where you get more involved. And again, we had the licenses, but we were not allowed to solicit or sell. We -if you came in -- if Mr. Bertram came in and sat with me in -- in a sales conversation, that would be brought up, too. Because if you're profiling -- you go through the whole process. If you have any interest, we have investment persons on site. You know, if you have CDs, savings accounts; if you're looking to, you know, build on your -- your -- your 12 13 savings, we have opportunities. And you have 14 to specify that it's not insured by the bank, it's FDIC insured by the investment division of the bank.

And if they decided they wanted to, I would set up an appointment for them, but no solicitation, even though I had the licenses, I had my disclosures on my desk and all that stuff.

Do you recall ever having a client come to you with a promotional offer to open a savings or checking account?

Of course. That -- that happens

M. Ashley 2 they have any mailers come in versus someone 3 that don't have, that's an invitation that was 4 5 sent to them, so that's what we have to go on. And that's when I would explain, well, if 6 you're opening an account, you have to do 7 this, this and this. 8

And then if there was any extended offer to get additional -- you know, like your banking, if you deposit money, you get X amount of dollars over a certain time. And then if you follow that, after six months you'll get this.

And again, it's what they bring to the table when they come to me. And again, I'm seasoned to know how to do my sales process. And -- but as far as entering software, everything is the same. It's just a matter of knowing and being aware of your campaigns and everything.

When they run these promotional offers, do you get a lot of customers that come in sometimes?

They come in. I mean, again, I can't remember how many people walked in, all the time, because there's always promotions going on. Always. And customers will walk in. And -- and -- and typically in -- in -- it's in all areas, but definitely in certain areas I have learned in my career where campaigns are very big, and customers come in with their walk-in invitations. Oh, if I open up this account, I get this and I get this. And if I do that, you know, I want the perks. And that's definitely typica- -definitely typical of this geographical area.

28 26

M. Ashley

Q Is the account-opening process the same if they have a promotional offer as if they do not have a promotional offer?

A Can you repeat that again.

Q Is the account-opening process the same --

A As far as following protocol, like procedures and --

Q Yes.

A Of course. Everything's the same. Everything's the same. As far as account opening, entering information in the system, nothing changes. What changes is if M. Ashley

Are you -- are you ever notified from your supervisors or superiors that we have an offer going out, we're going to probably have X amount of customers coming in?

Yes. That even comes out in what they call a retail update.

Q Do you --

They'll -- they'll send you a sample of it. You know, this is what's going on, and this is -- you know, be pre- -- you know, be aware of what's going on.

Do you do anything in preparation if you believe that you're going to have an influx of a --

No, there's no -- it's -- it's meat and potatoes. It's not anything complex, you know. You know, campaigns -- I mean, the Social Security number. Would let them know I'm linking whatever accounts are linked, which on that day was a checking and savings account. And I would say to Mr. Hirsch, "If you're in agreement, sign the card."

And then also go over what it says in the disclosure. Because on the cards, which protects me and the client, when I go over everything in the sales conversation and they initial, the whole process of leading up to the final steps of account opening and going through the whole thing, whether it's a campaign -- this card that's designed by the bank or to protect the client and the bank and myself, "By signing below, I certify my tax status under any penalties and subject to backup withholding," I disclose this section.

And by signing that, they're in agreement with that. If they weren't, they wouldn't sign the card. Or if there's anything that they didn't -- weren't sure of, then we would go over that.

Q Has there ever been a time where a customer never signed the signature card?

M. Ashley

that we have, you know, from checking to savings to overdraft protection, bounce protection, CDs, any current rates that are out there, promotions that we have that are internal promotions if -- that we can give to if -- for existing.

And if you're new or you come in, or even existing that comes in with a mail offer and they present me with -- after I go through that, you know, sit -- first I would sit down and get to know the client and talk to them. You know, have the initial conversation; open up the dialogue and make sure -- you know, we get comfortable with each other, get to know each other. And then I would just go through the process.

It's checking and savings. It's not -- you're not doing a mortgage, you're not -- you're opening up a basic checking and savings account, entering basic information in the system. And basically the whole conversation is getting to know your client and -- and just opening the account, you know. And again, that's plain and simple, you know.

A Never. Not -- not on my -- you know, I can't talk for -- on my part, if you're asking me, my accounts are dual controlled. They're signed off at the manager. It's signed off and it's verified. So if you don't have a card, you know, it's verified and IDs are taken.

Q Can you go -- can you discuss and state the process that occurs when one opens up a Citibank checking or savings account, exactly what -- what your process is.

A My process? Okay. My process is if you walk in, you're coming in to see me -- you want from the initial account opening? You want the whole --

Q Yeah.

A You would come in. I would sit down and stand up. I would introduce myself to you. "What brings you to the bank today?" So and so. The customer would -- you would say, "I want to open up" -- "I'm interested in opening up a checking or a savings account."

And then I would go through the process of discussing the different products

And then -- and then building on the relationship as time goes on. Again, if the client chooses to, you know. My clients, I can go and they have me in their office -- I will stay there for hours. I go in, I sit with my clients.

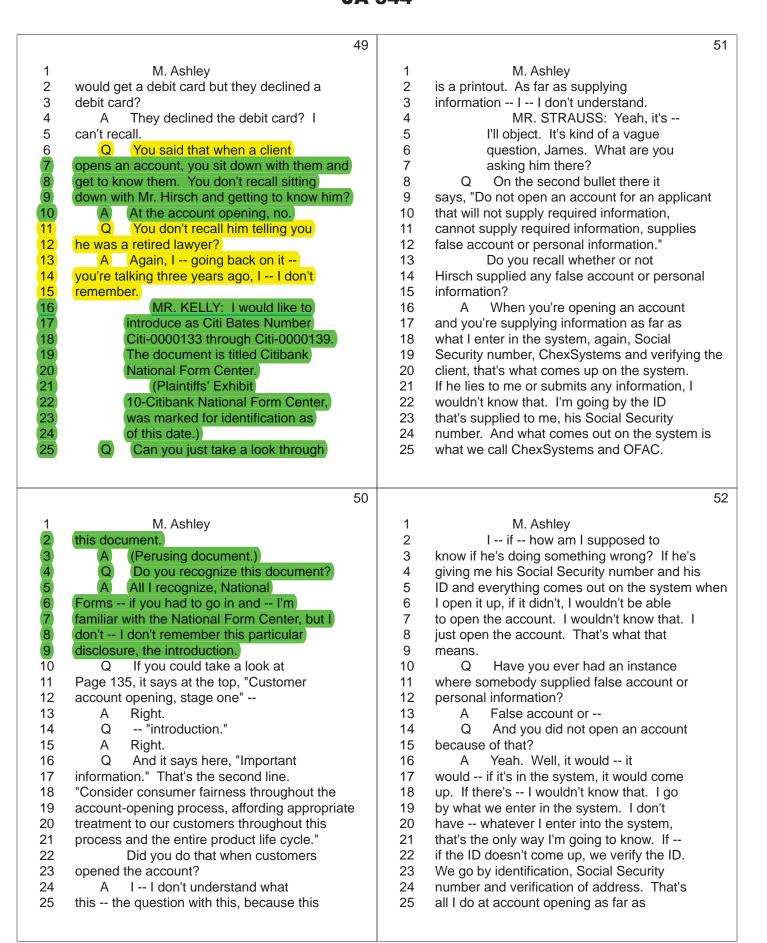

It's up to the client, their -- what they're about, if they want to spend time -- a lot of times customers come, "You know what, I gotta go. I got everything. You explained everything. If I need anything, I'll get back to you." And that's how the process goes. To the next customer.

And then you develop your -- I develop my relationships with the clients. So it -- it's -- the sales process would just be going through how the checking account works, the savings account. If they opened up a money market, you can only do -- write six checks a month.

Like you come in, "I want to open a checking, a savings, a money market," I would automatically -- specifically like a money market. "You know, you can" -- you're

Q I'm sure you could.

A Yeah.

Q While in law school did you have a particular concentration?

A I don't recall that that was ever something that law school, ah -- that one did in law school, except at the master's level. So no. The answer is no.

- Q When you graduated from NYU did you receive any honors or awards?
 - A No.
- Q Were you on Law Review?
- 13 A No.

- Q Were you on any other journal?
- A No. Who had the time? You know, I was, you know, between studies and all of the work I was doing outside of studies -- no, there was just no time for that.
- 19 Q Could you describe your employment 20 history since you graduated from law school.
- A Upon graduation I went to work for the Ogala Sioux tribe, O-G-A-L-A, Sioux tribe in South Dakota at the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation. And I was there for just under a working with the legal services attorney on some of his stuff.

But it included some very minimal criminal law representation, and mostly tribal issues having to do with treaty rights, having to do with the relations between the tribe and the federal government and dealing with different federal agencies on issues of concern to the tribe, whether it be housing, education, health, just another broad range of categories of things that the tribes are involved with the federal government with respect to.

- Q What types of issues arise in treaty rights cases?
- A Hunting rights, fishing rights, water rights, land rights, religious freedom rights, ah -- it just goes on and on.
 - Q And are these treaties between the specific tribe you were working for and the United States?
 - A Exactly.
 - Q And then you said you came back to New York in 1972?
 - A Right.
 - Q To the Association of American Indian

And then I went to, ah -- I came back to New York and I went back to work for the Association on American Indian Affairs where I was staff counsel -- ultimately chief staff counsel, because we hired a couple of more lawyers -- but I was staff counsel there from 1970, ah, spring of '72 to summer of '77.

And from then forward I was -- I have been in private practice. Solo practitioner.

- Q Could you describe your duties when you worked -- I can't pronounce the tribe -- when you worked for the tribe in South Dakota in 1971?
- A Well, you know, I was fresh out of law school, I was trying to learn how to be a lawyer. It was not something that they teach you in law school particularly. And so my duties, I was actually -- I was employed by the tribe, but I was physically situated in the office of the attorney who was employed by South Dakota Legal Services, a federally funded legal services program.

And so I was basically doing whatever work the tribe asked me to do. And in addition when they didn't have something for me to do, I was 1 Affairs?

- A Association on American Indian Affairs.
- Q On American Indian Affairs. And that's where you had worked previously while in law school?
- A I started in college and I worked there all through law school, yes.
- Q Could you describe your duties for the Association on American Indian Affairs?
- A Well, my duties were to, again, to work on whatever the executive director wanted to work on. To work on things that I independently decided to work on that were okay with the executive director and the board of directors, I should say. And also to handle a great deal of inquiries and requests for assistance that came in over the phone every day all day from tribes all across the country.

So, I mean, again, this involved -- it involved litigation to a -- not to a great extent, but the organization is a nonprofit organization that relied on charitable contributions, so the funds for litigation were not extensive by any means, but there was litigation. A great deal of travel to 1 reservations around the country and working on 2 3 local issues for one tribe or another, yeah.

A 1971 in South Dakota and Nebraska, 1972 in New York. And I think it was also 1972 in the District of Columbia.

10 A No. I mean not state bars, but numerous federal courts. 11 12

Q Do you recall the federal courts you were admitted to?

I'm trying to remember if I'm in the Eleventh.

I'm in the federal circuit, too, but. And then federal district courts: The Southern District

24 A US Supreme Court, yes, of course. I was admitted there in 1974. Argued a case in 25 possibly before he left the court.

Q Did you ever argue any other cases in the US Supreme Court?

A I didn't personally argue, but I have participated in cases that where certiorari was granted, but I was not the attorney who did the argument. There were several of those.

Q Were you ever involved in a case as an attorney where one of the parties challenged the existence of a contract?

A The existence of a contract? Uhm, not that I can recall, but maybe.

I mean, "contract" covers a broad scope of territory, but, you know, what constitutes a contract -- I mean, in a sense a treaty is a contract, too.

Q That's exactly where I was going, but maybe more pertinent to your work, any cases in which a party challenged the existence of a treaty?

A Oh, yeah. Oh, sure. Oh, the existence of a treaty? No, not challenged the -- no, no, I've never been involved in a case where the existence of a treaty was challenged. Interpretations of treaties, yes.

Unsigned

1 But not the actual existence itself, no.

- Q And with respect to the interpretation of treaties, does that involve contract law?
 - A No. No, it does not.
- Q It's confined to the particular language of the treaty at issue?
- A Yeah, and a body of federal Indian law that has developed with respect to that, right. Not contract law, I think as you mean it. no.
- Q Have you ever been involved in a case as an attorney in which a party asserted claims against a bank or a credit card company?
 - A No.

- Q And I believe you said that in the summer of 1977 you left the Association on American Indian Affairs and went into private practice?
 - A Yes.
- 21 Q First, why did you leave the 22 Association on American Indian Affairs?
 - A Well, it was time, I guess, to move on. One thing. Two, I had an interest in, frankly, in trying to increase my income. That calls. It was not hard to get work back in the day, you know. Now there is a lot more competition for that work, a lot more. But back then much less so and it wasn't that difficult to get work.

- Q And as general counsel your work, I assume, was fairly varied?
 - A Extraordinarily so, yes.
- Q So you would handle tort matters, contract matters, land use?

A Actually not so much, believe it or not. What I -- what I was handling was an awful lot of disputes which were common then and common now between tribes and states over jurisdictional issues.

I mean, there is a long, long history of states seeking to impinge on what tribes believe to be their exclusive jurisdictional domain in a whole host of areas, criminal and civil, and the tribes fighting back as best they could. So there was that as a constant element.

There was trying to assist tribes in developing housing for their people. And tribally controlled schools, that's another was a significant motivating factor. That was basically it. I mean, it was just -- it just felt like the right time to move on.

There wasn't anything special about it. I mean, they would have been delighted had I stayed. They wanted me to stay.

- Q And since 1977 you have been in solo practice?
 - A Yes.
- Q Can you describe the nature of your practice?
- A It was I would say 98 percent representing Indian tribes, and national and regional native American organizations.
- Q Representing them in what type of matters?
- A I was general counsel to a number of native American organizations simultaneously. I mean, it was quite overwhelming really. And I was also a general counsel to a number of Indian tribes at the same time. And then with respect to other tribes and organizations, I just did piece work as it came in.

I actually had spent a lot of years doing this. I was -- I was known. You know, I got area of jurisdiction where the states thought that tribal children needed to go to the state or local county schools. And the tribes were resisting that tremendously at the time I came along, because of discrimination. Massive amounts of discrimination. They wanted their own schools, which they ultimately achieved in getting. And I helped set up the first tribally controlled schools in the country.

Much later on -- I mean, I'm just skipping around here, but much later on when the battle was won to recognize the right of tribes to open and run casinos, I also helped establish the very first tribal casinos in the country. And litigated the very first challenge to that law, successfully at that time, in the Eighth Circuit.

And so on. I mean, it was just, ah -- I don't know what to tell you, but anything and everything that was going on in federal Indian law through several decades I was involved in.

The Indian Child Welfare Act was a major thing that I was involved in. It was signed into law by Jimmy Carter in 1978, it took eleven years to secure enactment of that. I was the principal drafter of that law, and lobbied it for eleven years and we finally got it passed.

That was the subject of a US Supreme Court decision, twice. The first one was in 1989, a decision by Justice Marshal which was a tremendous victory, six to three in favor of our position.

- A But I didn't argue that case either, but I had a major role in participating in it at the Supreme Court level.
 - Q What was the issue in that case?
- 13 14 A The issue in that case had to do with 15 whether or not the adoption -- it was an Indian Child Welfare case, it had to do with whether 16 or not the adoption of two children who were 17 twins and members of the Mississippi Choctaw 18 19 tribe, whether or not the adoption was valid. 20 Or whether it was invalid -- it was valid, the Mississippi State Court said it was valid under 21 state law, but the challenge was that it wasn't 22

And so the Supreme Court agreed that it wasn't valid under the federal law, because valid under the federal law.

Q Are you currently retired from 2 practice?

> A To a significant degree, but I wouldn't say entirely no.

- Q So you're semi-retired?
- A Yeah.
- Q What percentage of your time would you say you spend practicing law today?
 - A Oh, somewhere in the 15 to 20 percent range.

- Q And was that the case as of 11
- 12 October 2010 as well?
- 13 A Yeah, I would say so.
 - Q Okay.
 - A Yeah.
 - Q And other than this action have you ever been personally involved in a case as either a plaintiff or a defendant?
 - A I think I have had a couple of small claims cases years ago, not anytime recently. And as a plaintiff or a defendant -- never as a defendant, no.
 - Q That's good.
- 24 A No. And as a plaintiff -- no, not 25 really.

22 24

- they said the, ah -- the ultimate decision was that the tribe had exclusive jurisdiction to determine that adoption and the State Court of Mississippi had no jurisdiction. And so they voided that adoption.
 - Q What was the tribe's exclusive iurisdiction based on?
 - A On the statute.
 - Q On the statute.
 - A Yeah. The statute has a -- it's a complicated statute, but one section of it says that tribes have exclusive jurisdiction to determine adoptions, foster care and child custody issues pertaining to children who either reside on or are domiciled on the tribe's reservation.
 - Q So it's --
- 17 A And so there was a whole -- there was 18 a whole dispute in the case over the definition 19 of "domicile": Is it a state law definition of 20 21 "domicile", or is there a more universal 22 federal law definition which should apply here, 23 so that there is uniformity nationwide on how 24 the Indian child welfare records apply. Ultimately the court opted for the latter. 25

- 1 Q Just briefly, what were the small 2 claims cases?
 - A Car accident, you know, petty stuff.
 - Q Okay. Do you -- for your solo practice did you maintain an office outside of your home, or was your office -- did you have a home office?
 - A I started out by -- I bought a house many years ago before I was married, so I started out living in that house and working out of that house. But then it was only about a year after I bought the house that I got married, and my wife owned a house and so I moved in with her and kept the other house as my place of work.
 - Q So where is the first house that you bought?
 - A In Floral Park.
 - Q In Floral Park?
- 20 A Yeah.
- 21 Q And you said you still maintain that 22 house today?
- 23 A Yes, I do. I bought that house in 24 1981. I still have it.
- 25 Q And the house that you reside in, is

This is the video recorded deposition of Igor Romanov. 8 My name is Soseh Kevorkian here with our court reporter Gina Cloud. We're here from Veritext Legal Solutions at the request of counsel for plaintiff. 11 This deposition is being held at 2029 Century Park East in Los Angeles, California. The caption of this case is Bertram Hirsch, et al. versus Citibank N.A, case number 12-cv-1124(DAB)(JCL). 15 At this time would counsel and all present please identify themselves for the record. 17 MR. KELLY: My name is James Kelly, counsel for plaintiffs. 19 MS. PONEK: Shannon Ponek, counsel for defendant. 21 IGOR ROMANOV, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:	you've been gold member, some kind of privilege member in Citibank, you open an account and you receive bonus miles for opening account, checking account. You have to deposit certain amount, $25,000 or $50,000, certain amount of money, you would get after you make several transaction using your ATM) card you would get certain amount of bonus miles, and he told me this is good and convenient and nice based on interest on money you deposited, and I told him I would do the same. He took me to the branch and he met with gentleman Zubair. He was the one taking care of my friend's account because he lived right behind his branch and he said you're welcome as well, because they had me in the system, for some reason I had some banking relationship with Citibank in the past and at that time, I didn't currently have a CD with Citibank as well and we opened, I was told I would get the same thing as my friend did and he just mentioned would he open to my friend Igor Romanov as did you. By the way, my friend is available, I have his phone number, he still lives there and he can be called or contacted, no problem at any time. Q. What's his name? A. Zach Katz, last name K-a his son is Glen

A. It's in Marina Del Rey branch in shopping center right in middle of shopping center is the Citibank branch, and the reason I visited my friend, and is he live right behind, so we walked and he introduced me to Mr. Zubair and he is like a private banker, manager, I don't know. He was on the right-hand side on the table, like different position and he opened it for me and that was it.

After that I received my bonus miles in certain amount of time and doing certain amount of transaction like they requested. I used my ATM card, I got my miles, and beginning of the year I received 1099 for $1,000, and at that time, I usually around this time I receive the forms from different bank where I was interest earned because I had several CD in different bank institution, and I know for sure I didn't earn that much interest in Citibank because I didn't have a CD and I called, contact the branch and said maybe it's a mistake of some kind. I never received $1,000, what is this for, and he told me they don't know, they contact me. I spoke to a was an order put into place by the magistrate judge that we wanted to limit the discovery at this point to just the account opening.

- A. So we're done, okay, no problem.
- Q. We'll move on.

A. Just ask me interrupt because I don't know what you want to hear, so I will tell you. I just tell you the best of my knowledge and best I can.

MR. KELLY: I would like to introduce as Plaintiff's Exhibit 36 a document Bates stamped CITI-0000077 through CITI-0000078 titled Concierge Daily Transaction/Transmittal Report.

17 Q. If you could turn to the next page.

Mr. Romanov. Do you see where you signed here the 18

19 Citibank card? Was this the card that Mr. Zubair

20 when you signed up to open your accounts presented 21 you for signature?

22 A. This is my signature obviously.

23 Q. Was this card that he presented you, do you

24 recall this card being presented to you?

A. Since it's my signature I obviously signed couple times the branch and I spoke to my accountant -- no, I called to Citibank, 1 (800) general office, and I was told I've got this thousand dollars form, IRS form to pay taxes for the mileage I received. I said what does it have to do with that, I really got confused because I didn't understand even the nature of this form because for fact I did not receive $1,000.

I called to my accountant and I told him since -- we calculated like your miles bonus you received opening account equivalent to $1,000. I said what is the rate then for miles, so I was trying to pay taxes using my miles as well since I got miles, not dollars, so I said I want to pay IRS with the miles and they laugh at me, my accountant said that's not acceptable, IRS does not take miles.

Then I called the branch and I said what is the rate for bank and miles, so I have several thousand miles with different airlines and they want exchange it for money --

MS. PONEK: Can I just interrupt, this is beyond the scope of discovery at this point. We're in a very limited stage.

BY MR. KELLY:

Q. That's fine, what counsel is saying there this one, yes, this is my signature.

Q. When he presented you this card, did he explain to you that you were agreeing to certain terms and conditions with Citibank by signing this card?

A. No, I wasn't told anything like that, nothing at all. He said you have to sign it here, they gave me a receipt and that was end of story, and he said if you have any banking needs, feel free, 10 come into this branch and I could help you because 11 I'm like private banker, I don't know how you call, 12 but certain type of personal relationship with the

13 clients, but I signed something and I was given like

14 a receipt for my deposit. I wrote a check for 15 whatever was the amount, 25 I think thousand dollars 16 or more and that's about it.

Q. Did he provide you any other documents? A. No. He gave a receipt for my deposit and then he said you receive by mail like a statement.

Sometimes it's pretty easy to 21 Since then I owned the business. I own the business 21 know what my next question is going to be, but let for financial business. 22 22 me answer it so that the court reporter, she's 23 Q. So starting 1998 you began owning your own 23 taking down everything we say and if we're talking 24 financial --24 over each other, then she can't get what we're both 25 A. Yes --25 saying at the same time, so let me finish a question 22 24 Q. What's the title of that business? 1 1 and remember to give your counsel a moment to see if 2 A. I was the president of the company. 2 he wants to object and then answer. Okay? 3 Q. What is the name of the business that you 3 A. Uh-huh. 4 4 Q. So you at A-1 Financial, you gave 5 A. A-1 Financial. I don't own it anymore 5 individual customers loans? because my partner passed away year and a half ago. 6 6 7 It was dissolved and sold. 7 Q. As part of the those transactions, did you 8 Q. So you were the president at A-1? 8 have agreements with customers? 9 A. A, as in Anna-1, financial, which was closed 9 A. Of course. 10 like already like six years ago. 10 Q. After owning A-1 Financial, what did you Q. So from approximately 1998 to approximately 11 11 do? A. I own another after company lead to the 12 2007 ---12 A. I would say 2006, 2005, something like that. 13 13 sickness of my partner. I own similar type of 14 Then I sold it and kept it as a finance company for 14 company which own similar type of business which pay 15 different corporation. 15 partial is sold like full five years ago, and last Q. we did not communicate, but I told him I would have deposition today and he told me if you need to speak to him, he is available. That's what I was told.

- Q. So when was the last time you spoke with Zacharv Katz?
 - A. This morning.
 - Q. What did you discuss?
- A. We discussed how cold is it today and after that I told him I have a deposition with you guys and he said he is available, feel free to call, "if you need me," he said, "I'm available for assistance."
- Q. Did you discuss what your testimony would be about today?
- A. No.

- Q. Have you ever discussed this case with Zachary Katz?
- 16 A. We file together as I said the small claim 17 18 court. We went there and it went the George told me, 19 he obviously told me I would rule in your favor, but 20 Citibank took your case into different court and 21 nothing they can do, and then I didn't know how to 22 handle it technically because lack of I don't know, 23 technicality of trial and legal stuff, that's why I 24 start looking online and how do I find the counsel,

- A. Never.
- Q. Prior to filing the lawsuit, did you know who Mr. Hirsch was?
 - A. No.
- Q. When you first walked into the branch of the Marina Del Rey branch in October 2010 to open your accounts, who did you speak with?

- A. I think his name is Zubair. I have his business card. Zubair. I'm not sure if it's a first 10 or last name but I call him Zubair and I guess it was okay. My friend, Mr. Katz call him the same way.
- 12 Q. It's his last name. Did you speak with a 13 teller before speaking with Mr. Zubair?
 - A. No.
- 15 Q. When you approached Mr. Zubair, what did 16 you say?
 - A. Actually I called him and schedule an appointment. I call him and he said you are welcome to come in, and my friend said we would come into the branch to confirm I get the same type of account as he had.
- Q. So then when you went into the branch, what 22 did you and Mr. Zubair discuss?
 - A. Nothing. He told me open an account, thank you for coming, and he like to meet me and he said we

- Q. Did you ever discuss with Zachary Katz whether you received the client manual when you opened your account at Citibank?
- A. No, I didn't discuss it, no. We didn't speak about it.
- Q. Why did you choose to open your account in person?
- A. I didn't know there was any other way to open an account besides physical. I didn't know such option exist besides to come into the bank. I still believe now that you have to be present. That's why I open it in person.
- Q. Was anyone other than Zachary Katz with you the day that you opened the account?
- A. No.
- 16 Q. Prior to account 2010 when you opened your account, had you ever been to Citibank's Marina Del 17 18 Rev branch before?
 - A. No.
- 20 Q. Do you know who Bertram Hirsch is, he is 21 another plaintiff in this action?
- 22 A. Who?
- 23 Q. Bertram Hirsch.
- 24 A. I read this name but I don't know who.
- 25 Q. Have you ever spoken with him?

- would like to have you as a customer in Citibank and I'll open, it's the same account as your friend did
- and I ask him detail as far as like monthly fees, and he told me there is going to be none, and I said what
- should I do in order to get mileage, and he said you have to use ATM card, and how to use it. I don't use
- an ATM card at all and he explained to me how to do it and that was it. 9
 - Q. Let's just take a step back. Did
 - Mr. Zubair take any of your personal information
- 12 A. Actually, I remember that I gave him my
- 13 driver's license and he looked in his computer and he 14 said, "I have you in the system, because in the past
- 15 I had credit cards with Citibank, I'm sure I had like
- 16 long time ago, line of credit eight, nine, ten years
- 17 ago with Citibank, so I guess they have the same 18 system. They must have. He must know who I am. My
- 19 address didn't change for last nine years. 20 Q. Did you need to provide him with your
- 21 social security number, anything like that? 22
 - A. Yes, he asked me for my social. He asked me certain things put into the system like address 330.
 - Q. So he asked you for your driver's license, your social security number and your address, correct?

A. Right.

- Q. Did he ask you for any other information?
- A. I think, I don't remember if he personally asked me or asked me over the phone, the information of my American airline, how is it called, mileage account number, so where the miles supposed to go to. I don't remember this part even he asked me which stage they asked me for this account, but I definitely was asked because they asked me where to forward the bonus miles and I gave him my American Airline account information.
- Q. Did you provide him with any other information than the information we've discussed so far?
- A. My address, my social, like I said, my driver's license information, I guess that's it. I don't remember if he asked me for second type of I.D. or not. Sometimes bank ask for, but I do bank with many banks so I don't remember.
 - Q. You don't remember, okay.
- A. Probably he asked for I have with me several cards which could be taken as a second identity. As a second identification.
 - Q. Did anyone other than Mr. Zubair assist you accounts; is that correct?

A. I asked him how many times should I use ATM card in order to be qualified for this promotion. He told me it's very important to use certain amount, probably six times within the month period in order to do it, and I asked him is ATM card charge fees or something like that, because I did not use it in the past.

- Q. Did you ask Mr. Zubair any other questions?
- A. Ask him when I would receive my bonus miles and how long should I keep my money in a bank, and because some banks they charge you penalty if you withdraw funds, and I said I would open it as long as it benefit you and me and I won't be penalized for closing if I don't like it for any reason, or if I want to move funds for different use.
- Q. Did you ask him any other questions other than the ones you've already stated?
- (A. No, I just ask him when my miles would be deposited into my accounts. Ask him on savings account what interest it would earn and it was relatively low, but it was okay.)
 - Q. Did you ask him any other questions?
- A. Not that I can remember right now.
 - Q. So after Mr. Zubair took down your personal when you were at the Citibank branch --

A. No, not at that time, no.

MR. KELLY: Let her finish. THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

BY MS. PONEK:

Q. It will be an interesting transcript when we're talking over each other.

When you were opening your account, where in the branch were you sitting?

- A. Next to Mr. Zubair's desk. He has like a table and I sit in front of him, my friend Zach Katz is like Mr. Kelly is sitting right now, in the same position.
- Q. Approximately how long did it take you to open that account?

A. It wasn't long, it was 15, 20 minutes.

- Q. Did Mr. Zubair ask you any questions while you were opening the account?
- A. Why, I don't remember that, he was appreciate that I open an account and bringing them more business.
- Q. You stated earlier that you asked Mr. Zubair questions such as how to use an ATM card, how many times you had to use your ATM card, and whether you would be charged a fee for opening the information in the computer, what happened next?

- A. I wrote the check. I had the check with me and I asked him how I was make it payable to and I think it was two checks. I don't remember, I think one for thousand dollars. I don't remember, it was two items. I believe, if I'm correct.
- Q. Earlier we entered as an exhibit, Exhibit 36, and the second page of that exhibit is the signature card. Did you write the check before or after you signed the signature card?
- A. I cannot tell you that right now, I don't remember. I don't remember what was -- what comes first.
- Q. You stated earlier this is your signature?
- 15 A. Yes, it is my signature, looks like my signature.
 - Q. Do you remember signing this signature card?
 - (A. In a bank you always sign a signature card for opening account. It's standard procedure, I guess.)
 - Q. I'm asking something just a little bit different. Do you have a specific recollection about actually signing this Citibank signature card?
 - A. As I told you I have accounts in numerous

And then underneath it there is a sentence 10 bank that you typically sign a signature card? 10 that says "by signing below, I, one, certify my tax 11 A. Yes, always. 11 Q. So I'm asking you if you have a specific 12 status; two, agree to be bound by any agreement 12 13 recollection of signing this actual signature card 13 governing any account opened in title indicated in 14 at Citibank? 14 this card." Do you see that? A. Right now I could see it, yes. 15 A. It's a copy. If you would bring original 15 card, maybe I would say for sure, but I can't tell 16 Q. Did you ever ask anyone about this 16 17 you right now, it's three years since then. Of 17 statement on the signature card? A. No. course I signed the signature card. Was it this 18 18 19 card? Because like I said I have numerous account 19 Q. Either before signing it or after signing 20 for Citibank. Maybe this card from my CD which I 20 it? 21 opened at Citibank as well. I have a CD currently. 21 A. No. 22 Q. Did you ever ask about the agreement that's 22 MR. KELLY: Maybe you can rephrase and ask 23 him does he recall Mr. Zubair presenting him a 23 referenced in this sentence in the signature card? A. No, I did not. - you weren't sure if you wrote out the checks to open the accounts or if your received the signature card first, but do you recall when you received the signature card?
- A. I can't tell what come first, what come second. It happen like the same time, like you write a check.
- Q. When you were given a signature card to sign, did Mr. Zubair say anything to you?
- A. He just said you have to sign here and sign here. It's a signature card.
 - Q. Did he say anything else that you recall?
- 21 A. No, I knew it's a signature card, you have 22 to sign it.
- Q. Did you ask any questions about the 23
- 24 signature card before signing it?

A couple of years ago, I think. documents relating to the accounts," and let me just 4 4 Q. It's dated December 5, 2013 so it would clarify. The accounts is defined as any account 5 5 have been recently if you received it? opened by you with Citibank, including but not 6 A. Maybe December 5, yes. 6 limited to the accounts -- basically your checking 7 7 Q. Did you have in the month of December at and savings account that you opened in 2010. A. Yes, so what is your question? 8 some point, you received this document? 8 9 Q. So in December 2013, since December 5, 9 A. Yes, because I received so many of them, 10 10 mostly you are the one who sent it to me. It was 2013, have you done a search for all of the 11 documents relating to your Citibank account? 11 like ten pounds. Mr. Katz said he is going recycle, 12 A. I did not have time for it besides the CD. 12 price is more than he asked for in papers and copies 13 and probably the cartridge cost was more, the nature 13 Q. No. 4 states: "All requests for 14 of the claim. 14 production, all contracts or agreements relating to 15 15 Q. After December 5, 2013, did you undertake a the accounts, including any amendment or changes to 16 such contracts or agreements." Do you see that? 16 search for any documents relating to your accounts, 17 vour Citibank accounts? 17 A. Yes, I could see it, No. 4. A. Was I asked to look for it? Q. And again, you didn't --18 18 19 Q. Yes. 19 A. I don't have any. I don't have any contract 20 because I haven't reached any. 20 A. Yes, I received an e-mail from my attorney that they have to have whatever I have with Citibank, 21 Q. But you did say you receive monthly 21 statements --22 whatever business relationship do I have with them, I 22 23 have documents and, as of now, I have a CD as I 23 A. Monthly statement, yes, yes. 24 mentioned, which was 5-year CD, which I opened also 24 Q. And that you stored those monthly statements and any documents that were sent with the 25 only about the same time, so it's mature date going 25 60 58 monthly statements in your files, correct? 1 to be five years in October, I think end of the year, 2 2 October, maybe September. A. Yes, but in my understanding in contract, 3 4 5 6 7 8 just my understanding of laws, it's statement is not Q. I'm sorry, I wasn't very clear. I'm just 4 asking if you looked for any documents relating to a contract to an agreement. 5 MR. KELLY: For the record, Citibank also your checking and savings account that you opened at Citibank in 2010? has all these statements in their own possession. 7 MS. Did you look back at your monthly files to 10 10 I don't have any further questions. We are 11 see if you had the account opening --11 going to enter into the same stipulation. The 12 A. Not for 2010. I didn't look for files for 12 original transcript will be sent to our offices --13 2010. 13 I'm sorry, will be sent to you, and you will send it Q. So you haven't looked for any documents 14 14 to Mr. Romanov for his review and signature. He'll 15 dated in 2010 relating to the Citibank accounts that 15 return it within 30 days, and we also waive your 16 you opened? 16 obligation to keep the original transcript. A. No, I did not look for it as of now. I look 17 17 THE REPORTER: Do you stipulate to what she only for statement I have. I looked for Citibank and

THE COURT: Are the plaintiffs ready?

MR. SPORN: Plaintiffs are ready.

THE COURT: Good morning, Mr. Kelly. Good morning, Mr. Sporn.

Yes, your Honor.

MR. SPORN: Good morning.

(Case called)

MR. KELLY:

THE COURT: And on behalf of Citibank we have

Ms. Strickland and Mr. Strauss as well as Christine Giaquinto.

Good morning to all of you.

MS. STRICKLAND: Good morning, your Honor. It is nice to see you.

THE COURT: In this weather I'm so happy we were able to provide a somewhat precipitationless day for you to come.

I'm not guaranteeing it is going to stay that way, however.

MS. STRICKLAND: Your Honor, I think at the last hearing I had suggested that perhaps this hearing should be held in California and I think there was some enthusiasm about that idea.

THE COURT: I think it was unanimous but we didn't do anything about it, did we.

Now, I understand from discussions that you have had with Mr. Delaney, my deputy clerk, that you are feeling that it will be more efficient to stipulate to the designated parts of the depositions rather than have a reading of the record and giving me an opportunity to ask questions on specific things?

MS. STRICKLAND: I believe that's the case, your Honor. And we have actually filed with the Court to make the Court's life hopefully somewhat easier --

THE COURT: Color-coded.

MS. STRICKLAND: -- color-coded transcripts.

THE COURT: Yes. I was very pleased to see that.

MS. STRICKLAND: And all together in one binder so that each transcript has our colors and theirs so you don't have to flip back and forth.

THE COURT: I do appreciate that and I think that what probably makes the most sense in terms of efficient use of your time is that I reserve the right to recall you for questions and arguments on specific things once I have reviewed all of the transcripts. And I would do that at a time that is mutually convenient for all but I do agree that there may be a few areas where I have need for further inquiry or argument from you.

So, let me just make sure I understand we are stipulating to the record as it is based on the hearing the last time, based on the submissions of the parties, and I just have one question; we are in agreement that New York Law applies here to Mr. Hirsch and that California law applies to Mr. Romanov?

MS. STRICKLAND: That is correct, your Honor.

1 MR. SPORN: Yes. 2 MS. STRICKLAND: With the overlay, of course, of 3 federal law. 4 THE COURT: Oh that. 5 MS. STRICKLAND: Oh that. 6 MR. SPORN: Yes. Of course. 7 Well, then what I will do is release you THE COURT: and thank you for appearing today ready to do it the hard way 8 9 and hopefully the next thing you hear from me will be the 10 determination as opposed to a need to get together again. 11 Unfortunately you are very pleasant people, I might force a 12 need to get together again, but I will try and restrain myself. 13 Under those circumstances, I think that we can adjourn 14 conditionally at this point unless you have anything further 15 you wish to put on the record. MR. KELLY: Yes, your Honor. I do have some further 16 17 information that I would like to put on the record. 18 THE COURT: Fine. 19 MR. KELLY: Can I speak? 20 THE COURT: Sure. 21 MR. KELLY: Your Honor, I just want to take some time 22 now that plaintiffs have had more time to review the arguments 23 and cases cited by Citibank in support of its presumption of 24 receipt argument, if I may?

Although New York Law has established a presumption that a party has received documents when mailed to the parties' address in accordance with regular office procedures, the presumption of receipt rule or the common law mail box rule only applies to mailings.

THE COURT: No, no. I appreciate that. And I think that the defendants appreciate that too. This isn't a mailings case.

MR. SPORN: Not the hand-delivery of documents from person to person. The idea is that a properly addressed piece of mail placed in the care of the postal service or other mail delivery services is presumed to have been delivered and upon research it appears that this doctrine has been around since at least 1938 but this Court has recently and specifically held that the presumption of receipt relates to mailings only, not the hand delivery of a document. That case is SEC v. Espuelas, 905 F.Supp.2d 507 at page 522, Judge Engelmayer. I just found this case, your Honor. It is not cited in plaintiff's prehearing brief, it is a 2012 decision, and I think that this finding disposes of Citibank's presumption of receipt argument because this is not a mailing situation.

Going on, all the cases that Citibank cites are all mailing cases. Concerning a single document in the mailing and testimony swearing to the policy along with some other contemporaneous evidence such as receipt from Federal Express or computer registries showing the mailings went out to the specific customer address. Moreover, the actual mailings are the very --

THE COURT: But, I think you have got a slam dunk on the mailings issue, okay? Do you have anything else?

MR. SPORN: Well, just in case your Honor wants to apply this to where it has never been applied before there is also a distinction with mailing and presuming receipt. Those cases typically only apply to providing notice, not to forming an agreement. And there is a case that explains the distinction in great detail, this is Alvarez v. Coca-Cola Refreshment U.S.A., Inc., 914 F.Supp.2d 256 at pages 258 through 259. It is an Eastern District of New York 2012 case but provides good explanation of that distinction. And there is various other notice cases that show that you need more, you need some kind of Federal Express receipt, some kind of contemporaneous evidence to show that the actual issue was provided.

There is another Second Circuit case, Manigault v.

Macy's, 318 F. App'x 6, 7, page 7 through 8, which is also instructive on this notice first forming an agreement distinction. There the Second Circuit applied the presumption of receipt doctrine to a mailing of an arbitration agreement containing an opt-out provision to an employee. The Court found, based on all the testimony, that it was mailed, you cannot opt out, but then the Court went further to determine whether they agreed to arbitrate. There was another step, there is more that is required, and the Court found that that employee there continued to work, had notice of the agreement and was an estoppel argument, you benefitted from the account so we are going to find that you are bound to this agreement.

If your Honor may give me one more second?

THE COURT: You have as much time as you need,

Mr. Kelly.

MR. KELLY: Citibank has not provided any contemporaneous evidence looking through the record. a couple cases here, Coach Inc. v. Horizon Trading U.S.A., 908 F.Supp.2d 426 at page 432 to invoke the presumption a party must first produce evidence of mailing. In that case the Court found that Coach had done so in the form of the Fed Ex delivery receipt listing an address given by Chan himself. I don't think that you can apply this in a face-to-face transaction. The reason why they allow it in mailing is typically besides mere denial of receipt the recipient could say, hey, this is not my address, that was not my address, I did not live there at the time. There is usually something more to provide. face to face it is a sworn testimony that I provided against the sworn testimony that I never received it. I think your Honor has to go and look at the credibility if you want to apply the presumption in a non-mailing situation.

Another case, Meckel v. Continental Resources Company,

758 F.2d 811 (2d Cir. 1985), it is also a notice case. There was proof of a mass mailing. It was notice of redemption to debt holders' proof. Lots of proof of a mass mailing, 70 percent of the holders converted the debt to stock meaning they received this notice and the Court found the plaintiff did not contend that its name or address on the computer registry that was shown that it was mailed to was not accurate. That's the major case that is relied on by Citibank.

There is just a couple more points I wanted to highlight to your Honor.

Here this is not a mass mailing situation or a notice case. There is no evidence whatsoever that plaintiffs actually received the mail at issue. Indeed, Citibank cannot decide what version of alleged client manual was provided to plaintiffs. Citibank first stated the client manual dated January 2010 was provided to plaintiffs and changed its mind and now it states that a version dated July 2010 was provided to plaintiffs. Further, in her declaration in support of Citibank's motion to compel arbitration, Joan Haslam stated that California customers are provided the marketplace addendum but said nothing with respect to New York customers.

Now Citibank contends that New York customers also provided this marketplace addendum. Citibank's story is constantly changing as we go along here. Amazingly, Citibank now introduced a personal bank or foundation training document stating that the client manual and marketplace addendum must be explained and provided to the customer. This step is conspicuously highlighted in a bracketed box and the customer check list contained in that trading document, however this document, again, your Honor, states on its face that it was amended in March 2013.

Does Citibank amend this document to put in this additional step of providing and explaining the client manual and marketplace addendum to customers? Plaintiffs believe so because they have requested disclosure as to what the amendments were and Citibank has not provided any and remain silent on what the amendments were.

Further, the other policies and procedures providing step-by-step instructions on the opening of the accounts which is on Citibank's national form center for Citibank bankers to pull up, nowhere states anywhere therein the word "client manual" or "marketplace addendum" and makes general statements to make all material disclosures to the client. Although Citibank allegedly had this check list for each customer no such check list was produced and another rep, Vivian Safir, has claimed the check lists are destroyed and it should be noted that one of Citibank's reps Michael Ashley that opened up Plaintiff's Hirsch account worked there for 20 years, never recalled seeing the check list. Vivian Safir did not recall if the check list was in place two years ago but she said she definitely said it was in place a year ago.

Just like Citibank has amended its client manual to state on its face it is in agreement in connection with the lawsuit, plaintiffs believe that without any disclosure as to the amendment in the personal banker foundation document, Citibank also amended that document to include a step that the client manual marketplace addendum must be provided and explained to customers.

And just a couple more points.

Even if the Court were to believe Citibank here, the testimony shows that the client manual was never explained to customers to be an agreement with the bank or contained any terms of conditions. The testimony also shows that the client manual was never reviewed with Citibank customers. The alleged policy was never followed. Tellingly, Nancy Lewis, Citibank's 30(b)6 deponent and personal responsible for Citibank's policies and procedures, stated in her deposition that Citibank personnel are not required to review the client manual with customers. That's at page 16, line 10 through 16; direct conflict with this customer care check list that Citibank now introduces.

And just a couple more points, your Honor. There were a couple cases that said mere denial of receipt and mailing is okay where there is no personal recollection of providing the document. The case there is Cabobianco v. Sandow Media Corp., 2012 U.S. District Lexis 1433378 through 12, 2012, Westlaw, 4561761.

And your Honor, just real quick to close up with respect to the inquiry notice argument, even if the presumption of receipt applies and plaintiffs have not overcome this presumption, plaintiffs and indeed all Citibank customers including the proposed class members are not bound by the terms and the conditions in the manual as it does not state on its face as it is an agreement.

The Second Circuit found that it doesn't state on its face its agreement. The Second Circuit further found that although Citibank has provided declaration and according to which its practices and procedures provide the client manual to new customers opening deposit accounts, there is no evidence to indicate whether new customers are alerted to the fact that the accounts are governed by the terms and conditions included in the client manual or that the client manual contains an arbitration clause.

And, your Honor, even after all the discovery since this Second Circuit's findings here, if you look carefully through all the testimony, not one Citibank representative has testified that they have said to a customer that the client manual is in agreement or that the document contains terms and conditions. And all of the other banks out there for major banks such as Chase, Signature Bank, Bank of America, you can do a search on Google with the bank and their account agreement, you will see on the face of their account agreement that states this is an agreement with the bank, it contains important terms and conditions governing your account. I have a couple of the agreements right there but it is easily accessible on Google.

And just wrapping up here, further evidence came out that the client manual and marketplace addendum is not this 8 and 1/2 by 11 document. It is more 11 inches by 4 inches.

There was testimony by Michael Ashley it is very small, it does not look like that. Vivian Safir, oh, that's the client manual but that's not what it looks like. It is a small document as we showed your Honor last time and to slip it into this welcome kit that Citibank alleges is provided to its customers which plaintiff said they had never even seen the welcome kit further hides this agreement from the customers and further goes to plaintiff's unconscionability argument.

And just a quick -- and this is all with respect to Citibank's argument about Hirsch is a lawyer and litigated cases including before the Supreme Court and that Romanov is educated and has his own businesses and that they should be asking Are there any other written agreements that we should know of? Citibank provides no case requiring a consumer with some type of education or sophistication to ask in a consumer transaction, face-to-face, whether there are any written agreements. It can't be law. It sets up a he-said-she-said argument. Can you imagine -- you would probably do a hundred consumers -- yourself, your Honor, as a lawyer, should you be charged with asking and scouring every single document, Are there any other written agreements? Or if you are a business man? It just can't be a rule, your Honor.

I think that's all, your Honor. Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Kelly.

MR. SPORN: Just one thing, your Honor? A little housekeeping, if I may? I would like to hand in a law review article for your perusal and I am giving a copy to defendants which is an article which I think has bearing that might be useful which --

Being as it may, we have made many MR. It may have been annexed as part of some of the depositions but should your Honor want a copy of the Seventh under New York State, I'm happy to hand it in. THE COURT: The seventh? MR. is guaranteed to people in civil trials.

THE COURT: I think I can find it if I need to.

I am sure your Honor would but I just MR. SPORN: mentioned it because we kind of overlooked it in the previous session we had but I just meant as a housekeeping measure.

MS. STRICKLAND: Yes, your Honor.

Just for the record, these aren't marked in my favorite colors.

THE COURT: All right. Then no exception taken.

MS. STRICKLAND: We decided we would go with the ones that were visible as opposed to our personal preferences but in any way, thank you very much, your Honor.

Before I begin with some comments, to the extent that plaintiffs reference non-evidentiary materials in their closing remarks and this would include agreements entered into --

THE COURT: By other banks.

MS. STRICKLAND: -- by other banks by way of example, as well as potentially the current version of the Citibank agreement which is not at all relevant to this case --

THE COURT: That's certainly a position that you have taken.

MS. STRICKLAND: Right, as well as changes in the check list, we would object to any of that being, frankly, researched or considered in any respect in coming to a conclusion here.

Let me just start by saying that --

THE COURT: I think that the more important question is whether the materials that had been provided actually are materials that were extant at the time that these accounts were open because if there are subsequent versions it is not helpful to know that this, indeed, was what was supplied to either the individuals who opened the accounts for the plaintiffs or to the plaintiffs themselves. But, versions or dated versions are relevant whether or not the fact that things have been changed. I have not made a determination whether that is relevant but I will say that it would be more relevant if, indeed, the particular document in an exhibit is actually a document that was in existence and used by the Bank at the time that the accounts were opened. I disagree that versions don't matter.

MS. STRICKLAND: Your Honor, our position is really the following, which is: We think the case should focus on the versions that were available at the time that the plaintiffs opened their accounts.

THE COURT: Oh, I agree with that.

MS. STRICKLAND: And were made available to them, and other versions are not relevant to disposition of the case.

I will say that with respect to the version of the client manual, this is really much ado about nothing. were supplemental interrogatory responses served. This isn't a contradiction, it is that the person who actually pulled up the version at Citibank and signed the declaration realized that there was a then more current version which is the one that would have been supplied to plaintiffs. The fact of the matter is when you look at it, it is basically an identical version but it was corrected as soon as the mistake was identified and this just has to do with how the materials are maintained at Citibank because they're maintained in a more -- warehouse isn't really the right word but in a way in which they are kept, date by date versions, and she just pulled up the wrong version. It was a completely innocent error. It is not contradictory, there is nothing nefarious, and the versions aren't frankly different as relevant to this case in any event.

There are some fee changes or something not relevant here. So, like I said, it is a bit of a tempest in a teapot.

In any event, just to summarize which I will do in a not probably so concise way but let me take a whack at it: is clear, it is Citibank's position that the evidence that's been put before the Court both during the course of our hearing as well as in these deposition transcripts that have now been submitted to the Court and the exhibits that have been marked in connection with the hearing indisputably demonstrates that Citibank's corporate policy and practice was and is to provide the client manual to all customers who open an account at a Citibank branch. The evidence also is that this policy was consistently followed by Citibank's personal bankers including the bankers who actually opened the plaintiff's accounts. This undisputed evidence of Citibank's policy and practice establishes a presumption that plaintiffs received the client manual when they opened their accounts.

Now, Mr. Kelly just got up and said, oh, all those cases about the mail box rule don't actually apply here. Well, the Second Circuit does not agree with Mr. Kelly and in fact the Second Circuit, in its order in this case — so not only is it Second Circuit binding authority but it is also the law of the case — directed that the standard to be applied was the standard — and they gave an example in Ma v. Merrill Lynch and the Court said that: This Court should consider whether Citibank fulfilled its burden of proof in demonstrating a corporate policy regarding the provision of the client manual citing Ma which is a mailing case. But, the Court obviously relied on that and by so doing dictated that that was the standard to be applied. And Court there cited Ma and saying — this is the quote from Ma, "A presumption of receipt arises where the record establishes office procedures followed in the regular course of business."

So, we are here bound to the standard established by the Second Circuit in this case.

In addition, the argument that the mail box or the mailing cases don't apply defies, at some level, common sense. I mean when a plaintiff comes in as the plaintiffs have here and denies receipt, there has got to be a standard under the law for rebutting that and the Second Circuit has told us that that standard is the corporate policy and practice standard.

It is our view, and we believe that the Court will be persuaded upon a review of the evidence, that the overwhelming evidence establishes a presumption of receipt which defeats plaintiff's claim that they never received the client manual. Additionally, the evidence that's been put forward indisputably demonstrates that each of the plaintiffs was on inquiry notice and indeed probably actual notice but the test here, we would submit, is probably inquiry notice regarding the existence and terms of the client manual.

We would also submit that the repeated failure to inquire is evidence that plaintiffs in fact had the client manual all along. But, the rule in consumer transactions is that a person is not absolved from contractual obligations where a reasonably prudent person would have known of the existence of the agreement but failed to make any inquiry.

Here plaintiffs were repeatedly notified that their accounts were subject to terms and conditions and that the client manual is the document that contains those terms and conditions. The client manual itself clearly states it is an agreement. That is in the very first paragraph of the client manual. Nothing more would need to be known to know that it is an agreement and in fact Mr. Hirsch was very clear that even though he denied receipt and said he never reads things or he only reads things partially, he actually testified that he assumed his account was governed by an agreement. He was very clear on that. And he said it both in his deposition and he said it before your Honor in live testimony.

He did testify that even though he is an accomplished lawyer he only partially reviews important documents. But, even a partial review would have made clear to him that there was an agreement governing his account.

Let me just summarize very quickly the evidence as to Citibank's policies and procedures because it is clear and overwhelming.

At their depositions every single one of Citibank's witnesses — and again here in Court with Mr. Lota who testified live — testified that Citibank's personal bankers are required to provide the client manual to customers when accounts are opened. Citibank's 30(b)6 witness Nancy Lewis testified that pursuant to Citibank's required practice and procedure the client manual is provided to customers when they open a deposit account. And this policy is required at every single Citibank branch in the United States.

George Lotto, the branch manager of the Great branch when Mr. Hirsch opened his account and in fact still is but certainly at that time, testified here in court that pursuant to Citibank's policy and practice, Citibank's personal bankers place the client manual into a folder right in front of the customer and the folder is then given to the customer. He testified that this policy is a must. This is something we have to do he said. He also testified that at the evening wrap-ups with the personal bankers he confirms with the personal bankers that the client manual was provided to each customer who opened an account that day.

Furthermore, he stated that in the evening wrap-up he asked Michael Ashley who actually was the personal banker who opened the Hirsch account, whether he provided a welcome kit to Mr. Hirsch and the response was yes.

Mr. Lotto testified that he has never heard of a client manual not being provided to a customer at his branch, the Great Neck branch, in his nine years as branch manager.

This is a strong track record and this is a practice and requirement so routine that it was inconceivable to him that it had not been done and, indeed, there is no contrary evidence in the record.

In addition to Mr. Lotto and Ms. Lewis, Citibank's personal bankers who actually opened the Hirsch and Romanov accounts testified that they always followed Citibank's policy and practice.

Michael Ashley who opened Mr. Hirsch's was adamant that he provided the client manual to all customers as -- and he termed it as part of his due diligence. He has been in banking for almost a quarter of a century and actually you will see this in the transcripts was quite offended by the suggestion that he failed to complete this basic requirement when he opened Mr. Hirsch' account.

Fazri Zubair, who opened Mr. Romanov's account, testified that it is engrained in personal bankers that the client manual must be provided and that he, too, always provided the client manual to his customers. And then Vivian Safir who plaintiffs called, she is a personal banker at the Great Neck branch, testified that she gives the client manual to all customers and that is Citibank's policy that every time an account is opened they have to give the customer a client manual. Even Jacqueline Sarraf, who plaintiffs called although unclear what her involvement in the case is but she does work at Great Neck branch, testified that she knows the client manual is given to customers as well.

There simply is no reasonable dispute that Citibank has established its policy that requires a provision of the client manual to customers. Contrary to plaintiff's suggestion, evidence of actual receipt by plaintiffs is not the standard. There is no requirement that Citibank proved anything other than a presumption of receipt and this is very clear from the Second Circuit's order. All that is required per the Second Circuit is proof of Citibank's regular policy and practice. Even if actual receipt were required to be approved, plaintiff's signature cards constitute evidence of receipt.

Mr. Lotto testified that customers sign the signature card and receive the client manual as part of the same process, a process that begins and ends with the customer sitting with the personal banker while the account is being opened. Your Honor inquired during Mr. Lotto's testimony as to whether customers sign the signature cards before or after they received the client manual. The testimony will show, and Mr. Lotto testified, that delivery of the manual and the signing of the signature card are really part of the same process.

THE COURT: Actually, I think it says that after they have signed the signature card the last thing that happens is they get the welcome package.

MS. STRICKLAND: Right, but all while sitting there during the course of this account opening process.

Mr. Lotto testified that customers can review and ask questions about the client manual both before and after the signature card is signed and that's at page 53 of his testimony. So, it is not like the customers only hear about an agreement after they sign the signature card and, in fact, the signature card references an agreement so there are no surprises that there is an agreement governing the account.

THE COURT: No, there is a surprise, though.

Ms. Strickland, what agreement have they seen or have discussed before they say that they agree to it?

MS. STRICKLAND: Well, there is an agreement that is part of the package that is in front of them which has been the testimony, it is part of the welcome kit, and this really goes to the inquiry notice point which is there is an agreement reference, Mr. Hirsch himself testified that he knew an agreement would govern this account and it is certainly no surprise that there is an agreement governing your bank account and in fact the customers take advantage of that agreement all the time, they look to it for terms and provisions in the same way that the bank does. In fact, Mr. Zubair, who opened

Mr. Romanov's accounts, testified at his deposition that he provided the manual before the signature card was signed.

Again, part of the same process, perhaps a different order in that instance but, again, part of the same process while the customer is sitting there before the customer leaves the desk.

There also is no requirement that Mr. Ashley or Mr. Zubair actually recall opening the accounts of the plaintiffs. Their testimony confirms that they always followed Citibank's policy and practice and Mr. Lotto was clear in his testimony that he is not aware of any instance in which the client manual was not provided.

Plaintiffs have again argued that the customer care check list is somehow dispositive here. The check list is actually additional proof of the policy and practice. That check list, contrary to what Mr. Kelly characterized it as during his closing remarks, is simply a reference for the personal bankers who choose to use it. It merely reinforces the policy. There is nothing in the record that suggests it is anything other than that and, in fact, Ms. Lewis testified at page 27, the question was:

Is that something all personal bankers must use when opening an account?

And the answer was: No.

"Q How was this used, this document?

"A It can be used as a training tool for new personal bankers.

They use it mainly to remind them to order checks or order a debit."

And so, again, a bit of much ado about nothing. The check list is a reminder, it is not required to be used in every instance. I am guessing at some point that this becomes part of the mental process of anyone that opens an account, they know what is on the check list on the personal banker side.

As I said, it really is meant to just reinforce the policy. In fact, Mr. Lotto testified that the check list was in effect in October 2010 when the Hirsch account was opened and at the end of the day wrap ups he would review it to make sure that the required steps had been followed as just a sort of check list, check off the box. Right?

During the course of the argument before as well as during the testimony plaintiffs seemed to assert that because Mr. Hirsch allegedly received a separate privacy notice that must be proof he never received the client manual.

Obviously Mr. Hirsch could have received both the client manual and a privacy notice. Plaintiffs have also suggested somehow — and they suggest this in their brief, that Citibank misled the Second Circuit on this issue. That assertion is baseless. The declaration filed by Mr. Hirsch in this case merely states that he received Citibank's privacy notice. It didn't attach any documents and we pointed out in response that the client manual contains a privacy notice so perhaps he received the client manual as well notwithstanding his denial.

Plaintiff's argument that the client manual was not provided in the original pamphlet form also, again, a bit of much ado about nothing. We explained this at the prior hearing. Citibank provided an exact copy from its microfiche records of the client manual provided when plaintiffs opened their accounts. The fact that it was not provided to this Court in the pamphlet form as compared to an exact copy is not probative of anything.

In any event, by plaintiff's argument unclear by their argument whether the form of it, whether it is folded over or printed from microfiche is irrelevant. They say their clients never saw it in any event but, again, much ado about nothing.

We have provided it in a true and correct copy from microfiche.

Simply put, the proof of a corporate policy regarding the provision of the client manual required by the Second Circuit establishes a presumption of receipt. The denials of receipt here are simply not credible on the record. As to Mr. Hirsch, he has changed his testimony in the case. When your Honor has the opportunity to review the transcripts from the deposition as compared to his hearing testimony that will be quite apparent. At his deposition Mr. Hirsch testified that he did review certain Citibank documents including the Citi

Products Opened/Applied for Today document because it was the critical document for him. He didn't say he partially read it, he said he read it. Yet, in court he claimed he only read the first two thirds of that document conveniently stopping short of where it explicitly refers to the client manual. How convenient.

Similarly, at his deposition, he testified that he read his first account statement because he wanted to make sure it was exactly as he thought it ought to be. He didn't say he partially read it, he said he read it. But, in court he claimed he actually stopped reading it just before the words "Account Terms and Conditions." Again, how convenient.

In any event, whether partially reviewing critical documents actually helps his case, the change in testimony conveniently to always stop reading just before the language relevant here is telling. There are additional examples of inconsistency. At his deposition he testified that he has homes in both Great Neck and Floral Park. In court he said I have only a home in Great Neck and an office in Floral Park. And he also testified that he can't avoid getting some little bits of documents in Great Neck where he lives and his wife likes to keep everything clean in the way of paper, yet he is supposedly certain he never received a client manual and it wasn't thrown away at some point with some other paper. By the way, as an aside, something my husband would accuse me of doing, it is the neatnik wife syndrome.

At his deposition Mr. Hirsch also claimed that he never received an account agreement governing any of his three other bank accounts with other banks other than Citi in October of 2010. None. Not a single one of those banks ever gave him an account agreement. That just defies credibility. Yet, at the same time he then said, in Court after his deposition where he said he never received anything, Well, no, no. Maybe he actually received something from Capital One. That, of course, didn't come up at his deposition. Then he testified at his deposition he never received an agreement from Capital One.

So, some inconsistencies.

Given his inconsistencies and the absolutely clear testimony from Citibank's representatives as to their practice and policy, the evidence on Citibank's behalf clearly outweighs his testimony.

We also note that there have been some issues with respect to the document productions by Mr. Hirsch. The complaint in the case attaches an airline miles offer dated October 6 of 2010 that was supposedly addressed to him but this document was never produced by Mr. Hirsch in this case in response to Citibank's document request. Plaintiffs produced, in response to those document requests, a different offer which is Exhibit M to our pre-hearing brief. So, it appears there must have been documents in Mr. Hirsch's files when the complaint was filed that either aren't there anymore or have simply not been produced. What else has not been produced? Perhaps the client manual?

Mr. Romanov's denial of receipt also lacks credibility. Mr. Romanov admitted in his deposition receiving what he vaguely described as a receipt that he shoved in his pocket but no such receipt has been produced in the case.

At his deposition Mr. Romanov admitted on the record that he did not even search his files in response to Citibank's document request. In fact, plaintiffs failed to produce any documents whatsoever from Mr. Romanov in response to Citibank's document request. Plaintiffs inexplicably neither produced nor even described the document that Mr. Romanov admits he received from Citibank when he opened the accounts so we can't know what Mr. Romanov received and what is in his files. Again, his statements lack credibility.

Citibank has plainly established a presumption that the client manual was received and plaintiffs have failed to rebut that presumption. Moreover, pursuant to the preponderance of the evidence standard, plaintiffs more likely than not received the client manual.

With respect to inquiry notice, it is clear that both plaintiffs were repeatedly notified of the existence of the client manual and that their accounts are governed by terms and conditions yet they made no effort to inquire. Again,

Mr. Hirsch attempts to explain it all away by changing his testimony. He originally testified that he read the Citi Products Opened document as I mentioned but yet now has decided that he stopped two thirds of the way through, the same with respect to the account statement.

As a matter of law in any event, failure to read a document is no excuse. Mr. Hirsch was unquestionably notified as a matter of actual and inquiry notice of the existence of the client manual on multiple occasions as the record slows including the signature card, the Citi Products Opening document and the account statement as well as the offering document that started this case which says it is governed by applicable terms and conditions — again a matter of inquiry notice.

Plaintiff Romanov didn't testify here so we live with his testimony at deposition where he says he never inquired despite receiving the signature card and the account statement and presumably the offering materials.

With respect to the account opening card we have talked about that a bit, it specifically references agreements governing any account opened. Well, if that's the case, which it is, wouldn't it have been reasonable for plaintiffs, particularly Mr. Hirsch, a seasoned lawyer and Mr. Romanov as well an experienced business man in financial matters, to inquire as to whether the accounts were in fact governed by an agreement and, if so, where is that agreement or what does it look like?

This is particularly the case as to Mr. Hirsch who testified he knows that bank accounts are governed by an agreement. His testimony that he didn't need to ask about the agreement — that was his testimony — does not absolve him from the agreement. He just said he didn't need to ask about it. He said I don't need to inquire. That does not change the fact that he was on inquiry notice.

There is no case law decision that we have been able to identify that supports a finding that Mr. Hirsch is not bound by the agreement because even though he knows the bank accounts are governed by agreements, he didn't need to inquire, in his own opinion.

A review of the documents themselves further confirms that customers including Mr. Hirsch or Romanov are alerted to the fact that the agreement governs the deposit account. We discussed the account opening process. The testimony is that the account manual and existence of the client manual is discussed at the time of the of opening the accounts. The testimony is clear that pursuant to Citibank's policy that client manual is shown and delivered to customers and they're told this contains what you need to know. The fact that they don't go through it line by line or page by page is not determinative; the testimony is uniform that it is provided.

The testimony also from the Citibank witnesses is that if customers have any questions about the client manual, the personal bankers are available to answer those questions either if they themselves know the answer or they will call the appropriate people including the legal department if that needs to be done.

Additionally, as I noted earlier, the first paragraph of text of the client manual states that it is an agreement.

The case law does not absolve customers from reviewing the contents of a document that states it is an agreement.

Further, the airline miles promotions explicitly state that all accounts are subject to approval and applicable to all terms and conditions, again, further providing inquiry notice.

With that said, we have submitted briefing. We are obviously available to your Honor if you would like to ask further questions either in person or through additional briefing but we would submit, your Honor, that the evidence is clear here that Citibank has satisfied its burden to demonstrate the existence of a valid arbitration agreement either through proof of delivery or inquiry notice, either one of which in the alternative is proof of the existence of the agreement.

We thank you, and thank you for your time and patience during these proceedings. We appreciate it.

THE COURT: Well, thank you, all. Please see Pam on ordering this on a daily basis and splitting the costs between the parties.

You will be hearing from me.

MS. STRICKLAND: Thank you very much, your Honor.

MR. SPORN: Thank you, your Honor.

THE COURT: This matter is adjourned.
